

What's going on, everyone?!

Pretty exciting weekend of football, huh? While we were living it up in North Carolina (Tulsa/ECU was a blackout game THAT WE WEREN'T AWARE OF SO WE LOOKED LIKE IDIOTS. NC State's main campus is impossible to find. UNC is the most college-y college campus in the world, and Duke looks like Hogwarts. Plus Haynes King is still a baller) Miami lost to Louisville, Nebraska got punked (and the commentator just DESPISED their line play), A&M comfortably won with no stress from anyone whatsoever don't try to think back on it, Georgia/Ole Miss was the shootout we all expected, Alabama killed Tennessee with a 99 yard pick six, Texas Tech came back down to earth for at least one week, Diego Pavia hit the Heisman on LSU, SO MUCH RAIN in South Bend, The Holy War really ruined a Utah family's day in the sports bar we were in, Texas looked like booty butt in Lexington, Tulane disrespected the troops in the worst way, and Florida State lost again.

With all that craziness, Dario continues to hold down the top spot this week:

Rankings by Week

I'm gonna go ahead and get this out of the way. My performance the past two weeks has been unacceptable. This week Bryant Wesco Jr. severely hurt his neck/back(?) and Chip Traynum didn't even play for Toledo.

My only saving grace there is Spencer and Mike G. picked him too. We've long known Chapa has bailed on the competition, so he has not picks, but this week, we had a new no-picker, Chris! Come on down!

Moni had the best week this week (418 points) led by Heisman-hopeful, Fernando Mendoza's -52 points and all-around stud RB, Jeremiyah Love (-156 points).

And Dario had the next best week (a big reason he's still in first place) led by Fightin' Texas Aggie, Marcel Reed.

Brian's week was led by Bryce Llewellyn (10 tackles and a fumble recover). I mention this not because it's a great week, but because this pick was entered as we were driving to Durham for the Duke game.

On the whole, this was our cumulative worst week of the season. Second worst passing score. Worst rushing score. Second worst Receiving score. And worst defensive score. I'll take a lot of the blame there. Plus Chapa's scores are still included. Either way, let's all step it up this week.
