

Happy Friday everyone!

How was everyone's Week 11? We got to witness the Ags Fetty Wap Mizzou, Sam Houston get outgained by like 400 yards and still beat Oregon State, Indiana eek a win out versus Zombie Penn State, see both DJ Lagway and Garrett Nussmeier get benched within minutes of each other, BYU get obliterated by Texas Tech, we had boots on the ground in the storm at Camp Randall (Mike M.), Auburn's offense suddenly look good without Hugh Freeze, Cal upset Louisville in OT, Duke lose to UCONN, Kentucky beat the hell out of Florida, and Hawaii ruin the Mountain West's chance at having a playoff team.

We have a new leader in the clubhouse this week! But more importantly, we have SIX people within 800 points of first place and TEN within 1,400 points. This late in the season, that's pretty crazy to be honest.

Brian rocketed up to first place with a very solid week (he was one of seven players to have less than 450 points this week), but Ian had the best week of all by only picking UConn players(?). Never thought I'd say/type that, but Joe Fagnano is having a very quiet, incredible year for the Huskies.

We did have two duplicate picks this week. Jackson picked Germie Bernard against LSU, but unfortunately for him, he also picked Germie Bernard in Week 3 against Wisconsin. That was a long time ago, so it's easy to forget about that. Marc, on the other hand, picked TCU Wide Receiver, Eric McAllister, against Iowa State this week, when he just picked McAllister against Baylor in Week 8. Not a great look!

This week, we get to have an "injury" paragraph, so that's always fun. We had three picks of injured players (or players who got injured super early in their game). And I hate to say it, but Logan had two of those players. Louisville's Isaac Brown was out, and Cal's Cade Uluave was too. And our former fearless leader, Dario, picked Indiana Receiver Elijah Sarratt, but he didn't play in the Penn State game. Injuries are the worst.

Some of the better picks this week were Ian picking UConn's Bryun Parham as his tackler (-200 points), the Emmet Johnson gang (Me, Mike M., Moni, and Marc) – side not for a second. Can we talk about the game he had against UCLA? 100 rushing and 100 receiving yards. Big time player in a spot without his starting quarterback. Hollie picking Rutgers RB, Antwan Raymond (-180 points) was an awesome pick, and Jonathan joining the Pavia Mafia to the tune of -117 points.

Overall, a lot of really fun stuff in a very close race as we approach the end of the season. I can't wait to see how this game goes!
